SPEC'S Cheese of the Week

Centenol

The nutty flavor of this cheese stands out from the first bite while the buttery texture leaves one craving for another morsel. With the familiar Pyrenees shape, natural rind, and nutty-musty aroma, Centenol is reminiscent of Ossau-Iraty. However, Centenol is made with pasteurized cow's milk, and is a pressed, uncooked cheese with a rich fruity flavor profile. The semi-firm paste and tiny lacey holes are immediate clues to the type of cheese and its origin.
